COMMERCIAL VEHICLE, BODYBUILDERS, REPAIRERS PAINTING AND SIGNWRITING

COMPANY PROFILE

1939 - Stan Foster Limited Established

High quality commercial vehicle body building, repair and painting has been carried out at Steam Mill, in Preston, Lancashire since before the Second World War. Alongside the building of vehicles an enviable reputation for a no compromise commitment to quality and service has also been built. An amazing variety of vehicles were constructed over the next 30 years, establishing the company as the first choice for many companies for their vehicles - from bread delivery vans to specialist fire appliances.

1972 - Stan Foster Limited becomes Fosters Commercial Limited

Still based at Steam Mill, the company continued to grow and prosper employing a highly skilled workforce of fabricators, vehicle body builders, painters and sign-writers to produce bespoke vehicle bodies for an ever expanding customer base from throughout the North-West of England. The deliberate policy of continuing to provide full apprenticeship training is the envy of other companies within the industry, allowing us to maintain the levels of quality we are renowned for from a committed workforce.

1998 - Major Site Redevelopment Undertaken

In preparation for the new millennium and ever increasing growth, Steam Mill underwent a major rebuild over a two-year period. We are now equipped and have the space for an ever-widening portfolio of vehicle and trailer bodybuilding requirements. Our skill base is continuing to expand thanks to our commitments to training and continuing personal development.

The Future

We may still be seen as a small company meeting local customers needs but it has to be remembered that some of our customers operate some of the largest vehicle fleets in the country. We are in a position to respond rapidly and effectively to a changing and growing market whilst maintaining our commitment to our levels of quality and customer care.
